V1 ESTATES

V1 Estates are produced with high quality grapes from various countries and regions determined each harvest. This year we've found the best harvest quality in specific regions of Sicily, Chile, and Argentina. Maipo Valley is located in central Chile, bound by the Andes Mountains; Tulum Valley is located in the San Juan province of Argentina with terrain ranging from 650 to 1600 mts in altitude with extensive amounts of sun exposure; Ispica is situated in the sun belt of southern Sicily, its climate shaped by African winds and the Mediterranean sea. Nero d'Avola is one of Sicily's indigenous varieties.

Los Nogales is an organic vineyard in the Maipo Valley; Alto Las Parras is 870 mts. above sea level and is also an organically cultivated vineyard; Santa Filomena in the Casablanca Valley boasts clay soils rich in minerals from the Andean snowmelt, with a cool climate ideal for cultivating white grapes.

V1 DOMAIN

Each harvest the V1 oenologists commit to finding special vineyards that express the true meaning of terroir. In France the term is used to communicate the unique relationship of soil, elevation, climate and topography that impart character and uniqueness on a wine. We work with vintners who are dedicated to growing ultra-premium grapes. The V1 Domain wines articulate the true meaning of terroir; the most expressive and prestigious of all Vintage One wines.

aged in French, Hungarian or American oak barrels.*
